

Father's Day Saturday Safari

Each year we hold the annual Touch a Truck event, but with all the cleaning restrictions and sensitive equipment in many of these vehicles, we are finding that it isn't possible. Rather than cancel the event altogether and have nothing to do on Father's Day Saturday we would like to modify it with the help of the community!

Introducing Father's Day Weekend Safari - We are looking for truck owners willing to bring their vehicle and lock a stuffed animal inside the cab, or zip tie stuffed monkeys on your ladder trucks on Saturday, or create a fun scene on June 20th from 9-noon.

We are also reaching out to the downtown businesses to have them decorate their store windows like a zoo exhibit so that there are plenty of places to spread out and walk while looking for animals.

Here's how you can help

If you are a merchant willing to participate by decorating your window that weekend message us with your address so we can post a complete list at parks@blufftonindiana.gov.

If you have an interesting work vehicle or you are willing to decorate your trunk or golf cart call us at 824-6069 so we can get a headcount.

If you have an animal costume and don't mind being a little silly to bring cheer to the kids, feel free to wear it that morning while you are walking around on your safari.

If you want to donate your old stuffed animals, drop them off to the park office on the 2nd floor of City Hall.

Follow Bluffton Parks on Facebook for a list of participating businesses.
